Re: Notice of Nanaimo & Area Land Trust (NALT) Annual General Meeting
Wednesday, June 8th, 2022 at 5:30 pm. Online.

Dear NALT Member,

I hope this message finds you well and that we continue to enjoy a safe reopening of our day-to-day activities. This serves as the notice of NALT's Annual General Meeting on June 8th, 2022. Although we are now allowed to gather together in person, NALT is unable to offer a blended on-line/in-person event with certainty. To ensure that we are able to accommodate our membership and presenters, the AGM will once again be hosted online on the Zoom meeting platform.

2022 AGM

On Wednesday, June 8th at 5:30 pm, you can join our AGM on the Zoom platform by clicking on the link or dialling one of the numbers below. You do not need internet access to phone-in to the meeting. The business of the meeting will be Board and staff reports, approval of the financial statement for the previous fiscal year and an election of Board Directors. Following the business of the meeting, Dr Andrew Day, Chief Executive Officer of the BC Parks Foundation, will present on the projects and partnerships of successful conservation land acquisitions in BC (see bio below).

Prior to the AGM, you will receive an AGM package via email containing the Board and staff reports and Board election information. The draft 2021 Financial Statement and notice to reader review will be circulated after May 27th.

How to participate:

NALT Members will receive meeting details via email and Canada Post. If you are not a member and wish to attend the AGM please contact paul@nalt.bc.ca for more information.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding the AGM please feel free to contact the NALT office at 250-714-1990 or contact me directly by email: paul@nalt.bc.ca

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Paul Chapman
Executive Director, Nanaimo & Area Land Trust
